

The Microbial Sciences Initiative of Harvard University's intellectual home for microbiology

This can be a short paragraph on what MSI is and it's broad mission. One sentence on what MSI is (cross-campus, what the community is, what the community served is.) One sentence on what makes it unique (). One sentence on its mission.

Representing over 100 faculty research labs at Harvard University

Publications

MSI faculty have published more than 14,500 publications in some of the world's leading research journals

Patents and Spinoffs

Members have developed technology that have contributed to XXX companies and patents, including(cite some of George Church's work, Jon Clary's, Pamela Silver, etc.

Awards

Types of recognitions and distinctions awarded MSI faculty

MSI In the Community

Chalk talks & Seminars

Highlight that research shared is new. Highlight how this unites groups and serves X, Y, Z populations

Supporting Research

Two sentences on BAARN and how it uniquely brings together Boston community, providing space to foster partnerships across academia and industry.

Conferences

Two sentences on how the Annual symposium and BAARN brings global leaders in the field and fosters collaborations across groups (etc.)

Workshops & Trainings

Highlight past workshops and trainings held by experienced scientists, etc. etc. Highlight community is public, industry (early-stage industry-mature corp), harvard community...

Industry Partnerships

Statement about how MSI works with partners for research, trainings, equipment use, connecting w/researchers, educational initiatives, and engagement exhibits.

Educational Exhibits

Highlight something about museum exhibit, festivals, educational resources, etc. that MSI has done in the past.

MSI Selected Impact highlights

Successful Industry Partnerships

MSI partnered with NEB to identify novel restriction enzymes. This pedagogical project ...(something about what it was and who it served)

1st US Microbe Museum Exhibit

MSI led efforts to create the first microbe museum exhibit in the USA. Visit the exhibit at the Harvard Museum of Natural History

Global Annual Symposium

In April 2020, MSI is hosting a global digital symposium featuring leading microbiology researchers. This is open to the world via youtube.

